1. [REDACTED] the quarrel between Matyas Rakosi, who has just been re-elected as secretary-general of the Hungarian Workers' Party, and Ernő Gerő, Minister of State, which began in November 1950, has resulted in a weakening of Rakosi's position and a corresponding rise of Gerő in the favor of the Soviet government. The quarrel was caused by Gerő's ambition combined with the Soviet accusations against Rakosi in regard to inadequate production. It is now expected that Rakosi may be called to Moscow, and that Gerő may succeed to his posts in Hungary.
2. Imre Vajda, who was Secretary of State for Industry, is said to have been arrested and taken to Russia under a Soviet secret police guard.
